

Terra Green Energy, LLC

Raw Materials

The torrefaction process will take different varieties of biomass and convert them to a homogeneous material which can be densified and the burned along side coal.

Raw materials to be used include waste wood, slash, pole wood not otherwise used in the lumber industry, including bark as well as grown on purpose energy crops such as switch grass and hybrid willow and poplar. Wood that has little of no market value within the timber industry can be used in this process.

